WASHINGTON MASS MEETING

Sympathy Expressed for the Boers in their Struggle

SEVERAL SPEECHES WERE MADE

Senator Pritchard Speaks Today and Will be Replied to Tomorrow by Senator McEnery.

Special to the Telegram.

Washington, January 22.—Sunday night a large mass meeting was held in this city for the purpose of expressing sympathy with the Boers in their war against Great Britain. A number of congressmen were present, including several from Virginia and North Carolina. Some stirring addresses were made by the congressmen present. Representative Bailey, of Texas, was the principal speaker. Other addresses were delivered by Representative Lamb, of the Richmond district, and Judge Rhea, who represents the ninth congressional district of Virginia. Many of the speakers at the meeting attempted to draw a likeness between the English war against the Boers to the American war against Aguinaldo and his cohorts.

The meeting was held at one of the largest theatres of the national capital and had been much advertised, and was attended by quite a large number of people, many of whom were drawn not because of any real sympathy for either side, but merely out of curiosity to hear the distinguished array of speakers.

The present week in the senate will be an important one to the State of North Carolina. On Monday Senator Pritchard, arrording to the announcement made by the senator some time ago, will discuss the resolution he has introduced declaring the proposed amendment in North Carolina unconstitutional. His speech has been awaited with same interest, and will likely draw a large number of North Carolinians to the senate galleries. On Tuesday Senator McEnery will speak in opposition to Pritchard's resolutions. During the week it is likely other speeches on the subject of North Carolina's amendment will be delivered in the senate.

The appointment of Kitchin, of North Carolina, as a member for the state on the democratic congressional committee, is a wise selection. Mr. Kitchen served in the same capacity on the last democratic congressional committee. He is a good campaigner and will be of much value to the committee during the coming congressional campaign in North Carolina.

A number of members of congress went over to Alexandria Friday night to attend the celebration of Gen. Lee's birthday, which was observed there. A banquet was given. Most of the congressmen who went returned to Washington the same night, but one or two of the delegation did not return until Sunday.

Congressman Young has been much interested during the past week in the matter of government work, etc., of interest to Portsmouth, Va. A large delegation from Portsmouth and vicinity were in Washington the other day and visited the white house and war department.

Mrs. Echols, the wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia, was in Washington Saturday night, on her way to Richmond.

Senator Pritchard has introduced several bills in the senate. Among them are bills as follows: A bill for the relief of M. L. Skidmore; a bill for the relief of John D. Thorpe (by request); a bill granting an increase of pension to Hugh Earp; a bill granting a pension to J. L McDowell, alias Leander D'okey, and a bill for the relief of Levi Jones.

Representative Bellamy of North Carolina has introduced a bill in the house for the relief of John L. Cantwell, of Wilmington. The bill has been referred to the committee on claims.

Lieutenant Percy P. Bishop, Fourth Artillery, United States army, stationed at Fort Caswell, North Carolina, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bishop at Olympia Flats this city. Lieutenant Bishop was a former student in the public schools of Washington.

Mrs. Butler, wife of Senator Butler, will assist Mrs. Bankhead, wife of Congressman Bankhead, of Alabama, at her reception next Tuesday evening.

New postoffices have been established in North Carolina at Isaac, Wilkes county, and at Woodford, Ashe county.

A Beautiful Memorial.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L Vernon, formerly of Greensboro, now of Charlotte, have placed in the eastern transept window of West Washington Street Baptist church a beautiful opalescent window in memory of their son, Robert Willis Vernon. In the center of the window is the figure of the Angel of Purity exquisitely colored with the perspective of the valley in the distanne. This is indeed a beautiful memorial to him whose life was so pure and full of promise, and whose memory is held in affectionate regard by all who knew him.

Notice of Dissolution.

The firm of Hatch & Brunson, furniture dealers, has this day been dissolved by mutual consent, T. A. Hatch purchasing the business and will continue at the old stand under the firm name of T. A. Hatch & Co., who assume all the liabilities of the late firm.

THE GATE CITY.

Teebee Writes of Greensboro, the Normal and Other Things.

Father Time has dealt kindly with Greensboro. Instead of leaving the impress of age upon all he touched, he has worked over the materials he found there a quarter of a century ago and has made everything new. At the risk of being considered older than I used to be, I will observe that my recollection of Greensboro goes back to the autumn of 1873, when the quiet little town was called the City of Flowers. That was when more or less pretentious dwelling houses, with flower gardens in front, were distributed along South Elm street. But the last of these old houses has disappeared from the street and an almost unbroken double line of business houses occupies the ground where posies formerly flourished. Then nearly all the commercial business of the town was done in Market street; now there is nearly as much business done in Elm street south of the railroad as there was in the entire town at the date mentioned. With the changed condition of affairs the old nickname fell into disuse and Greensboro became known as the Gate City, as more befitting an important railroad, industrial and commercial center. It is not pretended, however, that horticulture is one of the lost arts in Greensboro—not at all; the scene of the amateur's activity has simply been shifted to localities where land is not worth so much for business blocks.

The growth of Greensboro has been little short of phenomenal. It has been a quarter of a century, I said, since I first set foot on its streets; but were I to try to forget all the changes since that time down to three years ago, the occasion of my last visit previous to a trip I took there the other day, there would still remain new things enough to fill a book or make a catalogue. But I am neither writing a book or contemplating a census, but merely writing some observations in a general way.

* * *

Talking with a well known builder, I learned that his energies were circumscribed only by the supply of building material. He had several contracts on his hands that he was pushing as hard as he could, and had orders for six houses that he had not been able to touch, though he was hopeful of beginning work on all at once when spring opens. Its experience is not exceptional, for every builder of reputation is up to the eyes with orders. Incidentally, I learned that the rebuilding of the Benbow House is being pushed along so expeditiously that the work will be complete by the first of March.

* * *

As in the case of some other towns, the original settlers of Greensboro had no idea whereunto the thing would grow. They just lit upon the most eligible situation for a court house and laid out a few squares in each direction, and then went about building houses and making a City of Flowers. The consequence was that when the building lots were occupied later comers began to establish homes along the adjacent public roads, the avenues of egress to the regions beyond. Later when more streets were opened the country roads were not disturbed. The result of the lack of foresight in the first settlers is seen in a number of streets running in different directions, at various angles and in graceful curves—all in a manner calculated to distress the soul of the city directory man, but well adapted to please the eye of those aesthetic persons who abhor straight lines. After all there are just enough of those curved and crooked streets to relieve the monotony and keep one perplexed who likes to keep the points of the compass in his mind.

The industries of Greensboro are so varied that there is no danger of any one attaining to such prominence as to overshadow the rest. In fact the tendency is in the opposite direction. There is the tobacco industry, for instance. Talking with a prominent warehouseman, I learned that although four million pounds of leaf are sold on the Greensboro market the average city merchant has little idea of the money it brings to his till. In Winston or Durham when a farmer goes into a store it is always assumed that he has brought a load of tobacco to town, and the merchant makes some inquiries on the subject. He (the merchant) is always prepared to impart some information in regard to the state of the market and to put in a good word for the warehouse people and leaf buyers. It would be worth money to both the market and the merchants of Greensboro if the latter would put themselves in touch with the former. The thought that you are interested in the success of my business makes me feel kindly disposed toward you and your business.

The closing of the State Normal in November was a serious matter all around. But that is all in the past. Tears have been shed over the dead and sympathy expressed for the living. Heart has gone out to heart through the touch of hand grasping hand. The The voice of weeping has been hushed and flowers will soon grow on the resting place of the loved ones departed. A brighter day for the Normal is dawning and its friends look hopefully to the future. A week hence its doors will be re-opened and its rooms will be filled with bright and studious young women eager to drink from this fountain of knowledge.

A few weeks have sufficed to for a work of transformation. The day I visited the Normal the last shovel-full of earth was thrown into the old well, the last section of defective sewer was being removed, and plumbing connections were being made that will stand the test of time and all possible change of weather. The walls of the college have been newly kalsomined from cellar to garret and every room has been fumigated with the most powerful disinfectant known. Unless medical and sanitary silence is a deception the conditions conducive to health are as near perfect as it is possible to make them. The double bedstead has been abolished, the old beds sold, and the mattresses burned. New iron bedsteads and new mattresses—a bed for every student—has been bought. Indeed nothing that could be done to insure the health of stutends has been left undone. It is not considered possible that a disease germ could and an excuse for existence anywhere about the Normal buildings.

The opening of the Normal last fall beat the best record of all North Carolina institutions in point of attendance The number present at the beginning of the session was 425, and when work was suspended there were 456 on the roll. It is not expected that the attendance will be so large at the reopening on the 30th, but from the number of replies received it is certain that there will not be less than 300

The health record of the Normal up to the last of October was phenomenal. The attendance so far exceeded expectations that the infirmary was used as a dormitory until the outbreak of fever, when other accommodations were provided for the girls who occupied it While at the Normal I saw the report of the resident physician, which would make interesting reading if there were room for it in this article. It should be remarked in this connection that the student's who were well and the parents of those who were ill were kept fully informed of the calamity that overtook the college in the early day of November, and that the entire student body was notified within one hour from the time when it was definitely ascertained that there was typhoid fever in the college, Throughout the trying ordeal the loyalty of the students to the Normal and their confidence in President McIver never wavered. Today their faith in the future of the institution is unbounded, and the two thousand matriculates in every nook and corner of the state are standing up for their alma mater like the brave and loyal women that they are.

The spring session of the Normal will be prolonged until June 10th, which will afford former students an opportunity to attend commencement, and many will doubtless take advantage of the late closing to grace the occasion with their presence. In another week students will be returning to the college. The management of the principal railroads will give half rates to students returning from their homes, in lieu of like terms given to those who went home for the Christmas holidays.

While visiting the college I took a drive over the grounds with Dr. McIver, visiting the piggery—the scene of the recent post-mortem by moonlight—the dairy, the barn and other places, all of which were found in a condition to reflect credit upon the agricultural department of the institution. Dr. McIver has a great scheme in his mind, which he will carry out as soon as the means for doing the work are provided. He contemplates making the grounds an educational park, in which every hill and dale, every spring and brook, and every road and path will bear the name of some patron of education or some institution of learning. Stones, appropriately inscribed with brief statements of the thought to be carried home to the mind of the observer, will be set up to designate the name of the locality, whereby the student in the coming years may study the history of education in North Carolina while engaged in her rambles through the grounds.

* * *

My mental memorandum book has some more notes that I might make use of were it not for fear of wearying the patience of the reader or of trespassing upon space that should be devoted to entertaining disquisitions on political matters and the usual variety of good reading that goes to make up the Sunday Post. Perhaps it is just as well that there are limits to newspaper articles. I am sure that the limit of this has been reached.—Teebee in Morning Post.

THE BRITISH SLOWLY GAINING

The Boers Try Again the Tactics Which Previously Enticed the British into Death.

By Cable to the Telegram.

Spearman's Camp, Jan. 22—General Buller's forces are still shelling the Boer positions. The advance is made with the greatest care and every movement is being justified by the report made on the Boer position after a balloon ascent.

Yesterday's fight was a stubborn contest over a front six miles long and continued from dawn till dark, with the British slowly gaining ground There has been a constant musketry fire to the northeast and the British gained a position the Boers were holding on the rocky ground beyond where the fight was going on at the front and both flanks covering every side range of territory At 10 o'clock Sunday a Dublin regiment was carrying a strong position with the bayonet.

NOTHING DECISIVE.

London, Jan. 22—Nothing has been received thus far today to indicate that any decisive result has been reached by the British forces in the region of the upper Tugela. All that can be said is that the British seemed to be doggedly advancing in the face of equally stubborn resistance. At the close of yesterday's fighting the Boers had merely evacuated their first line of defense to take another semi-circular position a short distance in the rear, recalling the old burgher ruse whereby the Boers have previously managed to entice the British into fatal traps.

FOR STATE OFFICES.

The Candidates Are Coming Thick and Fast.

The News and Observer sums up the past week in political circles as follows:

The past week has been an interesting and important one in politics.

The populists have got down off the amendment fence and we all now know where we're at.

The last of the three state conventions has been called.

In short the track has been laid off. The "get ready" gong has been sounded and it is now in order for candidates to canter out upon the course for a "show-off" before the grand stand and a preliminary warming up.

Soon the race will be on in dead earnest—for the democratic party.

As for the populists and republicans the an i convention contest will be a very tame affair. Candidates will simply have to "see" Butler. If he's for 'em they're alright, for he will name the populist ticket and whatever the populists name the republicans will endorse. That's their agreemen with Butler. But in democratic ranks things are different. The fellow who gets a place on the ticket needs first the endorsement of the folks Otherwise he stands no more chance than a pint of liquor in a cow camp.

And this is why we may look for some rare old sport between now and April 1', the convention day.

The convention this year will have more places on the state ticket than heretofore. The last legislature made the corporation commissioners, the labor commissioners and the commission of agriculture elective offices Heretofore the state convention has named seven candidates. This year it will name eleven—one for each congressional district, giving two places on the state ticket to the districts.

This puts me in mind to say that geography will enter somewhat in the nominating convention, for with eleven places and nine districts it is not to be supposed that any district will be backward about asking a place on the state ticket, and then which districts will get the two extra places?

So far the entry books show the following persons entered for the race:

Governor—C. B. Aycock, of Wayne; John S. Cunningham, of Person; Theo. F. Davidson, of Buncombe; M. H. Justice, of Rutherfordton.

Lieutenant Governor—W. D. Turner, of Iredell; R. L. Smith, of Stanly.

Secretary of State—D. H. McLean, of Harnett; J. Bryan Grimes, of Pitt.

Treasurer—W. H. Burgwyn, of Vance; J. D. Boushall, of Wake; H. A. London, of Chatham.

Attorney General—R. D. Gilmer, of Haywood; Francis D. Winston, of Bertie; J. T. Terome, of Union.

State Auditor—W. S. Pearson, of Burke; B. F. Dixon, of Cleveland.

So far there has been no announcement of candidates for the other places on the ticket.

The Florida Republicans.

St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 19—The republican state convention met here today. Hon. John G. Long was elected temporary chairman.

Delegates to the national convention at Philadelphia were chosen as follows:

John G Long and Henry Chubb, white, Joseph Lee and Mark White, colored.

The national administration received hearty endorsement but the delegates were not instructed for any candidate.

The leaders of the convention all agreed that the vice-presidential candidate would come from New York, Lieutenant Governor Woodruff, being the favorite, though Secretary Bliss had many supporters.

The Florida delegation will, it is conceded, follow the lead of the New York delegation.

Saw Mill Men Exempt.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 20—Judge Moore, who has been holding court here this week, has rendered a decision that is of special interest to saw mill men generally. State Treasurer Worth has decided that all saw mill men in the state must pay a tax as lumber dealers under a section of the revenue act levying a tax on people who deal in lumber. In order to test the legality of Treasurer Worth's decision, J. H. Barbee, a saw mill man of Patterson township refused to pay the tax and the case was carried into the courts. Judge Moore held that Mr. Barbee was not liable for this tax and in rendering the decision said that a lumber dealer, under the laws, was one who bought and sold lumber and not saw mill men who are manufacturers.

LONDON FOR TREASURER

The name of Henry A. London, editor of the Chatham Record, has been suggested for State Treasurer, and at the earnest solicitation of his friends he has consented to run. His name will therefore be presented to the democratic convention in April.

The Telegram takes pleasure in endorsing Mr. London's candidacy, not merely because he is one of the brightest lights of the state's editorial brotherhood, but because of long, faithful and efficient services in the party ranks without asking reward or receiving reward, and because he is as well qualified for the position and duties of state treasurer as any man in the borders of the commonwealth. Of his qualifications it is hardly necessary to speak. His whole career abound in deeds of honor and integrity. He is honest, able and clean. He is zealous and energetic. As a campaigner he ranks with the best political speakers in the state.

Aside from his eminent qualification for the office, his ability as a stump speaker and his long and unselfish devotion to the democratic party, there is another consideration, viz: His nomination would be but a just recognition of the invaluable services of the press. When has a newspaper man in this state been rewarded or his services recognized in a fitting or substantial manner? And where would the party be and what would be its condition but for the great disseminating influence of the press of the state?

We believe that the time has come when the leaders of the party and those who think and act, have begun to put a proper estimate on the work of the newspapers, and when a man to be chosen from those ranks, we can point to no man who has been more faithful, who is more deserving or better qualified than Henry A. London. When a small boy, over twenty-one years ago, the writer saw the first copy of the Chatham Record. We have read it almost continuously since that time, and we feel able to testify to its purity of tone and sound democratic doctrine. All this time Mr London has been at the helm, and he is therefore one of the oldest editors, in point of continuous service, in the state.

By nominating and electing him to the office of state treasurer, the democratic party will honor itself and at the same time show its appreciation of the labors of the most influential factor in the party—the press, without which it could not succeed.

This would long ago have been done but for the fact that the press has not pressed its claims. Brethern of the newspaper fraternity, let us unite on London and elect him state treasurer What say you?

HOME FIRST.

The Telegram has repeatedly said that good government in North Carolina means more to the people of the state than all things else political. That is one reason for favoring the holding of state elections at a different time from national elections. The success of the amendment question and the state ticket to be voted for in August, means infinitely more than who is to be president, or whether a single gold or silver, or a double monetary standard, shall prevail.

In yesterday's Charlotte Observer, a gentleman from Waynesville, Mr. S. A. Jones, takes that paper to task about its views on the money question, and the Observer, with its usual good sense, makes the following reply:

From an instinct of courtesy we print today a lengthy letter from S. A. Jones, of Waynesville, in reply to a recent editorial in the Observer. Mr. Jones did not need to say that he has not long been a citizen of North Carolina or a patron of this paper. Regarding his eight questions, he is informed that all this straw has been threshed over in The Observer time and again, and that he has seen so little in it, as to not have had knowledge of the paper's position on the financial question, is due to its interests in the very constitutional amendment that he has so much zeal for he would precipitate the discussion of a vexatious, irritating national question into the midst of a state campaign. For our part we have thought it best to fight out the campaign preliminary to the August election, and secure the adoption of of the amendment and the state to the democrats, as little encumbered as may be with a national issue which divides a great many men among us who that themselves democrats and are thoroughly united for the preservation of the state. This may seem a strange policy to Mr. Jones, but it seems to us good politics and good patriotism. When the state election is over he shall know as much as it may be profitable or necessary to tell of what we think about national platforms and candidates. This is a bridge which nobody need cross until he reaches it.

We call attention to the advertisement or prospectus of Trojan's Notion printed today in this paper, mention of which has been made previously in these columns. Trojan's Notion will be published at Sanford and edited by Rev. J. C. Troy, of Jonesboro. In advance we endorse the paper, and commend its mission, which will be distinct from that of any other paper published. The editor is well known to the reading public and needs no introduction. He has the Telegram's best wishes for great success in his undertaking.

H. A. LONDON IN THE RACE

Has Decided to Become a Candidate for State Tresurer.

A gentleman in Raleigh received a letter yesterday from Mr H A London, editor of the Chatham Record, saying that Mr London had decided to become a candidate before the democratic convention for nomination as state treasurer.

The gentlemen went on to add: "Mr London is one of the leaders of the democratic party in the state, whose attention to the party has won for him a host of admirers in all parts of the state. He has served the party faithfully and well in every capacity in which he has been called upon, but has never asked for office; and now he announces himself, only after being urged to do so by many friends, particularly among his brethren of the press.

Mr. London, though not yet an old man, is old enough to have served as a boy as aide to General Bryan Grimes in the Confederate army. He is one of of the oldest editors in the state, having been in the harness continuously since he established the Chatham Record, twenty-one years ago. He was one of the early presidents of the North Carolina Press Association and has been chairman of its executive committee since 1883 He prepared the constitution of the North Carolina Democratic Editorial Association, and is chairman of its executive committee.

He has attended every state convention since the war, except one when he was absent from the state: was chairman of the democratic executive committee of the Fourth district from 1872 to 1880, and an active and influential member of of the state executive committee for twenty-six years; actively canvassed in every campaign since 1867. Mr. London was an elector in the Raleigh district in 1872. He has been a consistent democrat, never having failed to vote and work for every democratic candidate since he became a voter.

The press was a strong factor in 1898, as well as in all democratic campaigns, and Mr. London is easily among the first editors in the state.

The press of North Carolina will be glad to see his nomination. There is no better man or truer democrat. He is one of the most eloquent campaigners in the democratic party and would be a vote-winner on the stump.—Morning Post.

Gaining a Wide Reputation.

As a cure for rheumatism Chamberlain's Pain Balm is gaining a wide reputation. D B. Johnston, of Richmond, Ind., has been troubled with that ailment since 1862. In speaking of it he says: "I never found anything that would relieve me until I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It acts like magic with me. My foot was swollen and pained me very much, but one good application of Pain Balm relieved me. For sale by O E. Holton, druggist.

BRYAN SPEAKS AT BALTIMORE.

The Fight is to Go on Till Victory is Achieved.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 20—Hon. W. J. Bryan delivered an address here tonight upon the political questions of the day to an audience which filled the music hall, the biggest auditorium in the city to its fullest capacity, and which greeted him and his remarks with the greatest enthusiasm. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Maryland Democratic Association, one of the free silver wings of the democratic party of the state, and was not encouraged in any manner by the regular democratic organization. In fact, the latter held strictly aloof from any participation in the affair. They made no effort to discourage it in any manner, but not one of the democratic leaders appeared on the platform, and an offer of stage tickets was politely declined by the principal members of the Democratic State Central Committee.

With the party who came from Washington with Mr. Bryan were Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, Congressman Sulzer, of New York, Richards of Tennessee, Jones, of Virginia, and DeArmond, of Missouri. It was nearly 8 o'clock when the party reached the music hall when the crowd greeted him uproariously.

Mr. Bryan said in part:

"I want to assure you in the beginning that my happiness does not depend upon any honor which the people of this nation can confer, neither do I believe that this nation's happiness or welfare depends upon any one person. As in politics, as in the army, the generals get glory and the privates do the work. And therefore I feel that I owe it to those who for nearly four years have been bearing the burden in the heat of the day: I owe it to them to say that what I have done is but an atom compared with what they have done.

"In 1896 the voters proved that they could control the policy of the party and during the last three years they have proven that they could hold what they gained in 1896 in spite of newspapers, in spite of railroads, in spite of banks, and in spite of every influence supposed to obtain, the plain people of the democratic party have stood and now stand for the Chicago platform, in all that it says. I want to begin with an accepted proposition, that proposition which I consider most fundamental in government.

I find that in the Declaration of Independence,—I pray you will pardon me for quoting anything from that old and outworn document—as our republican friends seem to think it.

PETITION AGAINST LYNCHING.

Presented in the House by White of North Carolina.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The house spent an hour today in disposing of bills favorably reported and among those favorably passed were three measures to build League Island and Mare Island dry docks of stone instead of timber. The reports on the Roberts' case were also received. An hour was given to pronouncing eulogies on the late Representative Danford, of Ohio.

Mr. White (N C. colored) presented a petition signed by 2,413 persons for national legislation against lynching and mob violence, and asked that it be read at the clerk's desk. Mr. Richardson (Tenn.) objected, saying that there was no reason why this petition should not take the usual course.

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help: but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist. Guaranteed.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher, of Liberty, W. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by C. E. One Minute Cough Cure, cures.
That is what it was made for.

Do you remember how you felt in the mornings when you were a boy? How good it was to begin a new day! How hungry you came to table! How tired you went to bed! How soundly you slept! Don't you find yourself saying sometimes, how I wish I could get up like that boy, eager for the day and feeling fit for it? And then don't you turn away with a sigh as if the wish were impossible of fulfillment, and start on the new day's journey tired at the outset?

It's not impossible to get back that glad boyish feeling again. It only means getting back health. Put your stomach in order and see how soon your sleep will be dreamless, your rest sound, your appetite hearty and your work a pleasure. The best remedy for all ailments of the stomach and nutritive organs is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Try it and join the great army of sick people made well by its use.

Nothing is "just as good." If you go for "Discovery" get "Discovery."

"The praise I would like to give 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes James B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1205½ Mifflin St., Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken down with what our physician said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you and you sent me a question blank to fill out and I did so and you then advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped, being, as I think, cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound.

The First Contest Decided.

Washington, Jan. 20.—House committee on elections No. 1 divided on party lines today, and a vote of 6 to 2 decided to recommend the seating of Wm F Aldrich, republican, who contests the seat now held by Gaston A. Roberts, Democrat, for the fourth congressional district of Alabama.

It is the first decision in a contested election case at the present session of congress. The contest was based on alleged intimidation and racial prejudices growing out of the appeals for white supremacy. A minority report will be made in behalf of Mr. Robbins.

Two Scandals at Manila.

Boston, Jan. 20—A letter received from a naval officer at Manila, dated December 12th, says that two scandals in the United states squadron are causing general talk One is the shooting of a Filipino on board the Monadnock by Captain McGowan because the man climbed over the side of the vessel forward instead of aft, as demanded by naval usage It is maintained that the captain intended to fire over the man and scare him, but he was hit in the hip and died soon afterward.

The other subject of comment is the fact that Commander S W. Very of the Castine, up to the present time has had every officer of the vessel, with one exception, under suspension, and one of them has objected. Although the authorities desire to get the proceedings, the officers will have to be heard, and the matter be carried to the department at Washington.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

VILLAINS IN NOVELS.

HOW SOME OF THE FAMOUS AUTHORS DISPOSE OF THEM.

Examples of the Grewsome Fates That Have Been Devised by the Writers of Fiction For Their Men and Women of Crime.

Dickens is responsible for a most entertaining gallery of rogues. Quilp (the distorted dwarf) and Rogue Riderhood (the ruffian) alike terminate their existence in a watery grave. Ralph Nickleby, Gashford and Jonas Chuzzlewit take their own lives, while Uriah Heep, Squeers and Littimer leave their country for their country's good in garbs gratuitously provided by government and freely embossed with "broad arrows."

Perhaps the most grewsome of Dickens' death scenes is that provided by the face of the ever smiling Carker, into which the irresistible locomotive is impressed, probably for the first time in the history of fiction.

Scott's villains most frequently meet with violent deaths at the hands of others, often their accomplices, or commit suicide on the eve of discovery and disgrace. But the sensation lover has nevertheless been catered for in the death of Anthony Foster, the accomplice of the poisoner Richard Varney. This miserable wretch is depicted as hiding from his pursuers in a secret cell. The entrance to this is fastened by means of a spring lock, of which, however, he omits to retain the key, with the consequence that he eventually perishes miserably of mingled fear and famine.

Lytton's "Night and Morning" gives us the coiner Gawtrey, who meets his fate at the hands of the Paris police, from whom he is attempting to escape when a pistol shot drops him over the side of a house to perish miserably. This idea of falling from a height is by no means confined to Lytton. It is utilized by Anthony Hope in "Phroso" and by Stanley Weyman in "Under the Red Robe," where the villain and his victim fall from a lofty bridge into a seething torrent below. In this way, too, Conan Doyle killed the immortal Sherlock Holmes, who, fast locked in a struggle with "the greatest villain of them all," falls over an Alpine precipice.

Wilkie Collins brings his principal villain, the double faced, calculating Count Fosco, to an ignoble end, he disappearing for a time, only to reappear upon the ghastly shelves of the Paris morgue. A still more ghastly fate is that of the she fiend, Gagool, immortalized by Rider Haggard in "King Solomon's Mines." Having conducted Quatermain, Curtis and party into that celebrated monarch's rock hewn treasury, which is guarded by a ponderous rising door of living rock, she touches a secret spring, by means of which the door begins once more to descend with a slow but irresistible motion.

While the Englishmen are sizing up the jewelry she makes off through the rapidly lessening aperture. Her progress is temporarily arrested by the unfortunate girl Foulata, whom she stabs in order to free herself. Hurriedly scrambling over the threshold, she is caught by the inexorable force which she has herself put in motion, and a realistically dramatic "scrunch" puts an end forever to the machinations of this truly horrible old woman.

Svengali, like Scott's Templar in "Ivanhoe," dies from an excessive mental strain acting upon the heart, while, to hark back to the days of the bluff Doctor of Fleet Street, the gentle, genial hearted Goldsmith is contented to reform the rakish Squire Thornhill in order that he may at last become the exemplary spouse of the gentle Olivia, around whom he wove that entrancingly simple narrative, "The Vicar of Wakefield."

Finally, the palm for "writing lurid" may fairly be accorded Harrison Ainsworth for his thrilling disposal of the two ghoulish wretches who haunt the pages of his celebrated novel, "Old Saint Paul's." The creatures who battened upon the spoils of the dead and dying during the great plague were wont to stow their ill gotten gains in one of the cathedral vaults. The cathedral taking fire, they hasten thither in order to rescue their precious hoard. The greed of gain, however, misleads them into sojourning just a moment too long.

As they turn to leave the now stifling vault they see that a thin silvery stream is making its way down the stairs, by which alone they can gain an exit. Even as they look it thickens perceptibly, and before they can escape the whole stairway is blocked, and the vault about them begins to fill with the silvery liquid. When it is added that the harmless looking fluid is nothing more or less than the molten lead from the roof and windows of the cathedral, it will become apparent that even Mr. Gilbert's "something with boiling oil in it" possesses a dangerous rival in the pages of "Old Saint Paul's."—London Standard.

The Cricket's Chirp.

The variation of speed in the chirping of crickets depends so closely on temperature that the height of the thermometer may be calculated by observing the number of chirps in a minute.

At 60 degrees F. the rate is 80 chirps a minute, at 70 degrees F. 120 per minute, and the rate increases four chirps to the minute with a change of one degree.

Below a temperature of 50 degrees F. the cricket is not likely to make any sound.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, MO., July 27.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

SOME LITTLE SCRAPS.

And Other Things Which Marred the Sabbath's Solemnity

Two negroes, named Will Caldwell and Hood Hogler, were pretty full of the reeking ardent yesterday and got into a difficulty. They were out north of the city somewhere, and about all that is known of the fray is that a pint bottle of the fiery fluid was smashed over Caldwell's head by Hogler. The officers now have the matter in charge, while it was necessary, we learn, for the doctor to make a stitch or two in Caldwell's scalp

A fisticuff took place on South Elm street about two o'clock p. m. between a young white man, Dud Weatherly, and a bootblack wearing a high, stove pipe hat The reporter did not learn the cause of the altercation, but saw part of the fight, and Weatherly was plugging the coon, who was the larger of the two, in regular pugilistic fashion. He kept plugging away until the negro apologized and the fight was declared off.

Some little coons living over in Apple Bottom found a large cannon cracker somewhere, left over from Christmas. They had seen something like it and thought they knew what it was for. A great crowd of them congregated to fire it off. They expected to see great balls of fire pour out of it, but when it burst with a report that jarred the hills and covered them all with dirt and smoke, it was worse than vaccination. The fathers and mothers ran out of the adjacent houses and began searching for the scared pickaninnies. None of them were seriously hurt, but they will not grow any more soon.

FIRE AT PROXIMITY.

Tenant House Belonging to the Cones Destroyed.

About half past one o'clock this afternoon, a tenant house belonging to the Cones, out at Proximity, was discovered to be on fire. The house was occupied by a family of mill operatives. How the fire originated the reporter was unable to learn.

The Proximity fire department responded promptly but the building burned like dry straw and the flames licked it up in a jiffy Some of the furniture, however, was saved. The loss is comparatively small.

OXFORD FEMALE SEMINARY.

In its Fifty Years It Has Sent Out Over 300 Graduates.

In a private note President Hobgood of the Oxford Seminary, writes:

"Nearly all our old students have returned since the Christmas holiday, and fourteen new ones have entered This gave a total registration boarding students (that is those boarding in the seminary building) of 76. About eight others are boarding in the town. So that there are collected here from abroad about 90 students. Our local patronage is larger than has been for years

"The school has been in existence for 50 years. During these 50 years it has sent out 300 or 400 graduates and many others not graduates, who were fitted here for their life work. Its alumnae are found all over this state and in many other states. Two of them are in foreign lands today, helping to give the gospel to the heathen. Two others laid down their lives in the cause of foreign missions.

The motto of the school during all these years has been 'thoroughness.' My predecessors, Dr. Wiat, and the great J. H. Mills laid broad foundations. The school under their management did honest and thorough work. It is not too much to say that under the present management it is still striving to do this honest, thorough work.

At the A. & M. College.

Notwithstanding the smallpox scare at the A. & M College last week, everything seems to be moving on in its natural order. Last Friday night night the Electic Literary Society rendered a well prepared program. The recitations, papers and the debate showed that the students had not been entirely overcome with fear and stopped work. The debate was on the constitutional amendment, the subject being Resolved, That the ratification of the proposed constitutional amendment of North Carolina will be for the best interest of the negro. The speaker for the affirmative was J. R. Quick, of Laurinburg. C. H. Best, of Snow Hill, represented the negative. Both speakers made earnest efforts in behalf of their positions. The affirmative, however, won the debate.

Sunday at 11 o'clock Dr. Goler, presiden of Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C, preached a very forceful and interesting sermon in the college chapel.

Business Elsewhere.

Since the outbreak of smallpox a house in the western part of town has been quarantined. A gentleman well known in town generally uses the street on which this house is situated in going to and fro from home, Naturally he makes great haste in passing, urging his horse t full speed. This, of course shows proper idea of caution and self protection. But "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley," for just as the gentleman got in front of the said quarantined house, the wheel of his buggy broke down. Exactly what the gentleman did we do not know, but venture to say he did not wait to repair the damage.

SMALLPOX SITUATION.

The Vaccinating Campaign Is Progressing Satisfactorily

Since our last issue went to press three more cases of smallpox have been discovered—two old cases nearly well and one new case. They have been removed to the smallpox hospital and are being taken care of Meantime the work of inspection and vaccination goes steadily, and sometimes merrily, on.

The three Richmond physicians are having new experiences every day, and it is surprising that colored people will continue to try to deceive them. It does not work. Coats must come off, sleeves go up and bandages be loosened for inspection in all cases.

The work of vaccinating the city last spring was considered thorough, but a number of the very people among whom is the most danger, escaped. Not so this time. As far as the virtue of vaccination goes Greensboro is today the best protected town in the state against smallpox. It is simply impossible for it to become epidemic here. Where soap and water have full sway and free use there is not a great deal of danger, and where these things are supplemented by the best scientific preventative, all may be assured of ample protection.

About the Richmond doctors, some of our exchanges are seeing a great deal of uneasiness, and some very ridiculous talk has been indulged in One paper in another state thinks the situation here must be awful when we have to send to Richmond for doctors.

Ordinarily such a thing would not be worth noticing, but in one or two instances there is an intimation that Greensboro and North Carolina doctors were slighted or mistreated in this matter. Here we may explain what some people have appeared too thickheaded to see. This city has inaugurated a vaccination campaign with a determination that it shall be thorough. Only three resident physicians were willing to give their entire time to the work if it could be arranged otherwise. They all had a chance at it. Finding this to be the case the mayor telegraphed to Richmond for some physicians who could engage in the work and three were immediately sent.

That is the whole matter in a nutshell. Men who were so situated in the practice of medicine that they could not drop everything and go into the vaccination business in a systematic house to house canvass were not the men wanted, and hence the young physicians from Richmond were employed. They did not come here to treat smallpox cases but to prevent people from having smallpox.

If some of those who are losing sleep over it will come to Greensboro and watch the movement of things they may learn something that will be of value to them. They could at least go home and tell the truth about what they saw while here.
